nal of Energy Chemistry to review and value the many contributions of D.S. that pertain to current scientific evolution. The Special Issue covers recent developments of carbon-related and energy storage materials for application, in-situ chemical processes via TEM analysis, and several critical reviews for energy storage and conversion.

This energy storage technology, characterized by its ability to store flowing electric current and generate a magnetic field for energy storage, represents a cutting-edge solution in the field of energy storage. The technology boasts several advantages, including high efficiency, fast response time, scalability, and environmental benignity.

SH) announced that one of the company's subsidiaries intends to cooperate with Beijing Dangsheng Material Technology Co., Ltd.
