A steady solar panel input of 150-200W can keep a mini-fridge running daily via a solar generator. This amount of solar power keeps the solar generator's battery charged up while using it with a mini-fridge. However, it's important to use a solar generator with a large enough battery to run the mini-fridge at night.

The first factor in calculating solar panel output is the power rating. There are mainly 3 different classes of solar panels: Small solar panels: 50W and 100W panels. Standard solar panels: 200W, 250W, 300W, 350W, 500W panels. There are a lot of in-between power ratings like 265W, for example. Big solar panel system: 1kW, 4kW, 5kW, 10kW system ...

The power stored in a solar generator's battery is in direct current (DC), but most devices and appliances use alternating current (AC). This inverter converts DC to AC. If your solar generator doesn't have a built-in inverter, you will need to purchase one separately, or you can purchase an inverter generator instead.
