The solar panels installed at a California power plant are killing birds that fly into them, according to a new study. The study, published in the journal Environmental Research Letters, found that the Ivanpah Solar Electric Generating System in the Mojave Desert has killed an estimated 6,000 birds since it opened in 2014.

Opened in 2014, the largest solar power plant in the world, Ivanpah Solar Plant, located in the Mojave Desert in California, is believed to be responsible for at least 6,000 bird deaths each year, as the birds can suffer severe burns or become incinerated if they fly too close to the 40-foot towers that concentrate sunlight from five square miles of solar panels.

Consulting bird experts is essential in the process of building a safe wind power plant or other projects. ... Other forms of solar power that don't include PV panels are not safe for birds. Concentrated solar power (CSP) technology concentrates solar rays onto a receiver using mirrors; birds and other flying animals can be attracted to the ...

A solar power tower, also known as "central tower" power plant or "heliostat" power plant, is a type of solar furnace using a tower to receive focused sunlight. It uses an array of flat, movable mirrors (called heliostats) to focus the sun's rays upon a collector tower (the target). Concentrating Solar Power (CSP) systems are seen as
